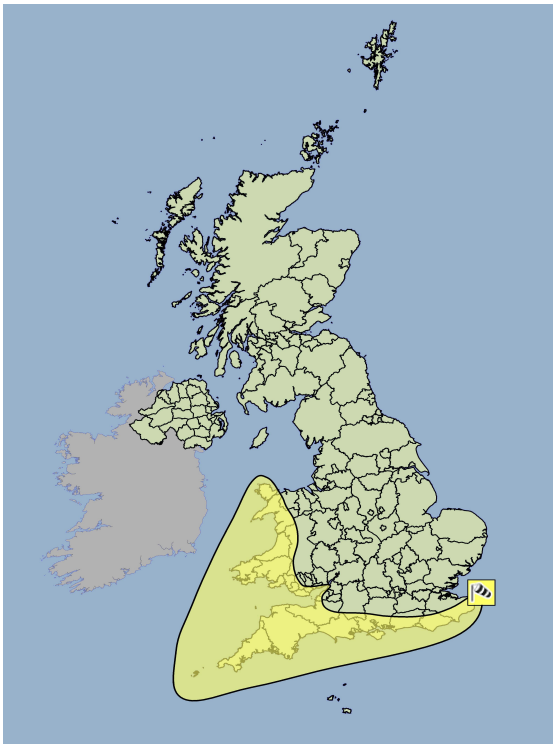
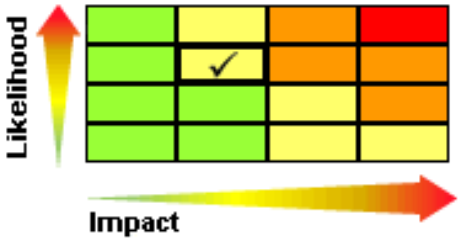
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
An active frontal system will move eastwards across the UK during Sunday night and Monday. Very strong south to southwesterly winds will develop, with gusts of 60-70 mph likely within the area of the Warning, particularly near coasts and over high ground with a low probability of a short period where gusts could reach 80 mph at exposed locations in the Isles of Scilly, Cornwall and western parts of Wales.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 00:05 on Mon, 30th Dec 2013 until 13:00 on Mon, 30th Dec 2013

South to southwesterly gales and locally severe gales will affect western and southern parts of Wales and parts of southwest England during the early hours of Monday, moving east to affect English Channel coastal counties through Monday morning, whilst winds ease from the west later.

The public should be aware of the risk of disruption to travel, particularly as the gales will be combined by heavy rain in some areas (see separate Warning).

This is an update to the Alert issued on Saturday.
